MATTISON B. JONES ON TRAGEDY AT LOS FELIZ

Inquest Conclusively Shows Utter Disregard of Life by Motorman

"Editor of Press: As a protection to my fellow citizens of Glendale and to the people who travel through our city, I deem it my duty to say through your columns to your many readers that the testimony at the coroner's inquest held yesterday upon the death of Eugenia Lindsey was absolutely conclusive of the utter recklessness and brutal disregard by the motorman in charge of the three-car train, of human life.

"It is a well-known fact to all those who are acquainted with the intersection of Brand boulevard and Los Feliz road, where the accident occurred, that there is no obstruction of any kind to prevent a motorman on a Los Angeles bound car at a distance of several hundred yards from said intersection from seeing an automobile anywhere in that intersection. In the face of this fact this motorman testified yesterday that at the instant he first saw the Lindsey automobile the front of his train was only 30 feet from the point of collision with the automobile and that at the same instant he saw the automobile it was 25 feet from the point of the collision.

"When asked by myself why he did not prior to this time see the automobile in that intersection, he replied that he was looking to the left. He also testified that he knew the speed of the train at that intersection was limited to 20 miles an hour by the ordinance of the city of Glendale. Thus he was driving this three-car train loaded with people at a speed of from 40 to 50 miles an hour knowing that he was approaching an intersection that carries heavy traffic, and did not deem it his business in the protection of human life to see an automobile that was crossing his track, until he was within 30 feet of the impending collision. Furthermore, the testimony without conflict shows that there were four to six people standing at the regular station by the southbound track to take this or any other car that would stop, for Los Angeles.

"Here follows the verdict of the coroner's jury:

"'Fracture of skull caused by a collision with Pacific Electric train, Burbank Limited, which was traveling at excessive speed and beyond control at the time of the accident. No warning signal given by motorman in time to avoid accident. No danger signal located at crossing to safeguard the public.'

"MATTISON B. JONES."

MILITARY PAGEANT PLANS DISCUSSED

No small interest attaches to the luncheon conference to be held at the White Inn Saturday noon to discuss the proposed 4th of July military celebration. Places are being reserved for 50 and it is probable all seats will be occupied, because there will be representatives from many organizations in Glendale, Burbank, and elsewhere. At this meeting it is expected that some definite decision will be reached in regard to the proposition.

Covers will be laid for representatives of the Glendale city government, Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, G. A. R., Red Cross, Boy Scouts and National Guard.

Burbank citizens and organizations are much enthused over the matter and that city will also be well represented. It is reported that a donation of three acres of land near the Burbank high school for the contemplated armory, has already been made.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR LYNDALL HAVEN

Lyndall Haven was guest of honor Thursday evening at a party given in celebration of his twentieth birthday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Haven, at their home, 409 Salem street. The house was beautifully decorated with pink and white roses and guests were delightfully entertained with music, dancing, games and fortune telling. At the close of the evening a handsome birthday cake was cut and served with ice cream, while the honoree received the congratulations of his friends—Mr. and Mrs. Sprinkle, John Philippi, Lucy and Helen Welch, Edwin Stivers and Pearl Hunchberger.

DRAFT DODGER JUGGED

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 6.—Tito Ligi, of Scranton, charged with evading the draft and believed to have been implicated in the Wall street bomb explosion, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment, in the federal court here today. Judge Whitman, in imposing sentence, said he was willing to extend leniency to Ligi if it would aid federal officers in clearing up the bomb mystery and added that he was making a personal investigation of Ligi's case.

LOCAL MASONS GO TO COVINA ORPHANS' HOME SUNDAY

Assemble at Masonic Temple at 10 A. M.—Large Number Expected

Committees in charge of the Mother's Day pilgrimage which members of Masonic orders of Glendale make every year to the Masonic Orphans' home in Covina, report that 75 auto loads are already enrolled to make the trip next Sunday. They will assemble at the Masonic Temple at 10 o'clock and go from there to Covina.

Committees of arrangements are actively at work. Mayor Dwight Stephenson has been made chairman of the committee responsible for looking after transportation and auto banners. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam and others, are lining up a program for the entertainment of the orphans. Other committees are looking after refreshments and report 40 gallons of ice cream engaged and 105 pounds of the choicest chocolate candy already purchased. It is a basket lunch affair and each family will take sufficient lunch for its own needs and for the entertainment of an orphan or two. Eleven mothers of children in the home will also be present to participate in the pleasant affair.

Over 600 white carnations, the floral emblem of Mother's Day, have been ordered and nothing that can contribute to the success and pleasure of the day will be neglected.

A considerable portion of the artists secured for the program which the Masons are to provide has been drawn from the ranks of talented amateurs in Los Angeles who are Masons and therefore interested and glad to contribute. One number will consist of legerdemain stunts that are certain to please the boys and girls.

Mr. James of Los Angeles will give monologues and character studies; Miss Mona C. Gardner, dramatic instructor of Glendale high, and Miss Doris Packer, of Glendale, will give recitations; Francis J. W. Henry of this city, who is giving five or six cases of Sierra beverages, will also sing Scotch songs; Miss Lois Naudain, whose mother is matron of Glen Eyrie Chapter O. E. S., will dance, and there will be other attractions by performers from this city and elsewhere.

Dr. R. V. Hogue, who is one of the biggest boosters for this excursion and for the Masonic Orphans' home, says it is very different from the ordinary institution in that there are few regulations, no uniforms, the children attend the Covina public schools, and take turns keeping house in the two bungalows which have been built since last year, that they may get some idea of home life as distinguished from institutional life.

BIG GARDEN PARTY FOR MONTE VISTA

Tickets for the garden party to be held on the Marshall lawn, 525 South Central avenue, for the benefit of the Monte Vista home for under-nourished children, on Saturday, May 14, are now on sale and the rate at which they are being taken encourages Mrs. R. W. Meeker and her committee to believe the affair will be a grand success.

The punch bowl will be presided over by Mrs. Colin Cable; Mmes. J. G. Huntley and H. L. Clotworthy have charge of the ice cream booth: Mrs. C. F. Parker, the candy booth.

An interesting program of entertainment is being arranged; the high school jazz orchestra will assist.

A meeting of the committee on arrangements has been called for next Monday evening by Mrs. Meeker, chairman, at the home of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, 415 South Central avenue.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC TO BE PROSECUTED BY CITY OF GLENDALE FOR VIOLATION OF ORDINANCE EXCEEDING SPEED LIMIT

President Stephenson States That Evidence at Inquest Shows That Car Was Traveling at Excessive Rate of Speed, Resulting in Death of Eugenia Lindsey and Seriously Injuring Her Sister—Petition Presented Containing 600 Signatures Requesting Board to Enforce Franchise With Pacific Electric

At the meeting of the City Trustees Thursday evening Mrs. Annie Bancroft presented a petition said to bear 600 signatures, all of which had been secured since Wednesday noon, petitioning the board to enforce the franchise agreement with the Pacific Electric Railroad that all cars should stop at the street formerly known as Tropico avenue but now Los Feliz road; directing attention to the heavy traffic carried by that thoroughfare and also by San Fernando road, Park avenue and Colorado, which should be protected by safety stops, and calling upon the board to abolish the high speed of limited trains in Glendale.

A resolution adopted by the Associated Students of Occidental College was presented to the board by a delegation of ten young men students from the college, which resolution deplored the death of their fellow student, Eugenia Lindsey, volunteered to assist the trustees in ascertaining the cause of the accident, requested the trustees to use every possible effort to see that all the facts relating to the accident are made plain and to use every effort in their power to see that the laws of the city are enforced for the protection of Occidental students and others passing through the city not acquainted with the fact that there are limited trains.

President Stephenson stated to the board that at the coroner's inquest over the body of Miss Lindsey, ample evidence was introduced in support of a criminal prosecution of the Pacific Electric railroad under the city ordinance. The coroner's jury found, he said, that Miss Lindsey met her death by reason of a collision between a Pacific Electric car and the Ford coupe in which she was riding; it found that the car was going at an excessive rate of speed; that no warning was sounded and there was no protection at the crossing. Said he: "I have the name of a gentleman who was travelling alongside the car who glanced at his speedometer and saw that it was running at a speed of 35 miles an hour, but the car was outstripping his auto by far. The motorman himself made the statement that the car was going, in his opinion, at a speed of between 18 and 25 miles an hour. It seems to me in connection with the investigation that has been ordered by the police department that we should instruct the city attorney to procure a copy of the transcript of evidence introduced at the coroner's inquest together with such information as the police department may get to supplement the coroner's record, and that a criminal prosecution should be filed without delay." President Stephenson also stated that his firm had been retained by the family of Miss Lindsay and that he was authorized to offer the city all the evidence in possession of his firm.

In accordance with this recommendation the board voted on motion of Trustee Henry, seconded by Trustee Robinson, that the city attorney be instructed to obtain a transcript of the record of the coroner's inquest over the body of Miss Eugenia Lindsay, that the police department be instructed to make a separate investigation and report same to the city attorney and if in the opinion of the city attorney sufficient evidence is at hand to warrant criminal prosecution for violation of Ordinance No. 400, that the same be instituted without further order of this board, and that the city attorney be further instructed to report the action taken at the next meeting of the board.

The petition offered by Mrs. Bancroft was referred to the city attorney for investigation of the terms of the franchise granted by the city of Tropico to the Pacific Electric railroad.

NEW AND BETTER AMERICA, THEME OF MISS VERMILYE

Reviews Origin, History and National Policies of the United States—Hoped That Great Wave of Patriotism Country Had Made it a United Nation

WOMAN'S VOTE A BIG FACTOR IN FUTURE

Pacific Coast Looms as a World Commercial Center Which Will Change Focus of United States—Panama Canal Will Be Factor to Development

In beginning the exceedingly fine address which she made at the Chamber of Commerce forum Thursday noon, Miss Vermilye of New York city, who has temporarily been a resident of our city, said:

A New America

"The marshalling of facts and review of what we know, often clarifies our thinking. Two years ago very few of us would have questioned the declaration that there is a new America, that after the years of agony the united nation, swept by a wave of idealism, consecration and sacrifice, was going to take its place in the world among the nations as a leader concerned for the good of the world and humanity. In this day of reaction the vision has somewhat dimmed. We are not all of us so sure we are going to have a better America, even if we have a new one. We do know it will be different from what it was before 1914."

Miss Vermilye then reviewed the origin, history and national policies of the United States of which she said we had developed only two that were outstanding, viz., the Monroe Doctrine, never thoroughly understood, even by our presidents, and the doctrine of the commercial open door, and the territorial integrity of China.

She referred to the warning against "entangling alliances" which, she declared, was uttered by Thomas Jefferson and not Washington, and was the natural and obvious advice to give the struggling nucleus of a nation.

Vastness the Keynote

"Vastness," she pronounced the keynote of the nation. With a great wilderness to be conquered naturally grew the policy of the open door and welcome to those of other lands, which has persisted until today. Before the war it was said: "We are not a nation; we are the north, the south, the east and the west, and each has its own policy and ideals." We hoped the great wave of patriotism that swept the nation in 1917 had made it a united nation, and I believe that is one of the great things that will decide the destiny of the new America. I believe the people of this country now stand together with mutual interests and aims as never before.

Effect of Women

"In the past in America we had no equality of women in industry, in government, position, influence and voice, and I am convinced it is going to make a great difference in the future of this nation.

Attitude of Labor

"Another thing that is going to make a vast difference is the position of labor. Heretofore labor has been subject to law, subject to the institutions of the country. It is no longer

TABERNACLE FILLED DESPITE HEAVY RAINSTORM

J. O. C. Women's Class, 75 Strong, of First Methodist Church in Attendance

Despite the pouring rain last night, the big Tabernacle was comfortably filled. The only delegation present was the J. O. C. class of women from the First Methodist church, just 75 strong. They gave their yell, then asked the privilege of singing No. 39, which was granted them. Mr. Ironmonger complimented them very highly, saying that every member of the class ought to be in the choir.

Owing to great noise of the falling rain upon the roof, Evangelist Brown announced that he would not discuss the theme announced as that would require a full presentation, but would substitute one which he could abridge if the noise got too loud so the audience could not understand him.

After a beautiful rendering of "The Ninety and Nine," by Mr. Ironmonger, the evangelist, without stating his theme, read from Acts 16:25-35, the story of the Philippian jailer. The text was "Sirs, what shall I do to be saved?" The evangelist said:

"Note that Paul in answer to this question replied, 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved with all thy house.' With all his house—note that. Parents today should do their best to bring the whole family to Christ. If they were more concerned about bringing their children to Christ than in amassing wealth, we would have more whole families in the church."

Then the evangelist briefly sketched the story of Paul and Silas in the prison with their backs raw and bleeding from the cruel lash and with their feet fast in the stocks, yet they were singing praises to God.

"And then came the earthquake. It sometimes takes an earthquake to stir people up to a realization of their sins. Some people don't believe in excitement in a revival but I do. How many of you people out there were ever in an earthquake? My, nearly all of you. No wonder you would brave a storm like this to come out to hear the gospel preached. The jailer was in dead earnest. He saw that Paul and Silas were calm in the midst of this great catastrophe and reasoned that they had something he had not. Some people need to be shaken up to be saved. The jailer fell down in the midst of the crowd of prisoners. If you want to come to Christ you must come openly. You serve the devil in the limelight. You must come out for Jesus in the same way and if you are not really converted, stay out of the church. It is for saved persons only. If a person is truly converted to God he will want to get into the church.

"The jailer did not need reformation but regeneration. Don't wait to come to Christ until you reform. Come in your sins and He will save you. Conscience is not a safe guide. Follow God's plain, infallible law.

"The jailer said: 'What shall I do to bes aved?' Paul answered 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ.' Why did Paul so answer? Because this man lacked faith. He could not believe until he had repented.

"Many people do not need to be told this. They may believe on Christ and they know just what it is that keeps them from being saved. Christ is able to save everyone in this house and can do it now. Why don't you take Him at His word? There is a fanciful story told of the snowflake hesitating to fall on the mountain for fear it could not bear its weight. So men profess to fear to fall into the arms of Christ because He cannot bear them up.

May God help you all to fall into the arms of Christ and rest there.

FRIENDLY TO JAPAN

TOKIO, May 6. — Intimation from Washington that Richard Washburn Child, the writer, may be appointed United States ambassador to Japan aroused high interest here today, especially in view of the fact that many Americans regard Mr. Child as being friendly towards Japanese aspirations. The foreign office has not yet received any notification from Washington that a new American ambassador has been selected. Mr. Child was a classmate of Edward Bell, counsellor to the Amerocan embassy and present American charge d'affaires.

CONSERVATION TALK BY MRS. FRED DOW TO D. A. R.

Meeting at Home of Mrs. Brady, Who Acted as Charming Hostess

Members and friends of General Richard Gridley chapter, D. A. R., were not deterred by threatening weather yesterday afternoon from attending the regular meeting of the chapter, at the home of the regent, Mrs. J. H. Braly, 505 North Brand boulevard; for they all know by experience that the delightful programs of the chapter and the charming hospitality of the hostess, are ample compensations for even a drenching.

The chief feature of the afternoon's program was an interesting address by Mrs. Frederick Dow, of Chicago, who was head of the council of defense during the war and is now engaged in government conservation work among the women of the country. Mrs. Dow's talk on conservation was intensely interesting and instructive. She dealt with the subject of thrift not merely as a matter of the wise use of money, but, in a wider sense, as pertaining to the wise use of time, the conservation of health, "the greatest asset of any nation," and the training of children in habits of industry. The three R's, Mrs. Dow said, are necessary, but not more necessary than the three B's—body, brain and bringing-up; or the three C's—culture, conduct and common sense—or the education of the hand and heart.

She closed with Emerson's quotation: "America is God's last chance to save the world."

Mrs. Preston announced a plan whereby the chapter will raise by the June meeting, through a free-will offering, $50, or "a mile of pennies," for the maternity hospital. Mrs. Braly had promised the chapter a check for a like amount when they had raised their "mile of pennies."

Plans were made for an al fresco luncheon in June, at La Ramada, in which, reversing the chapter's usual custom, the regent will be the honor guest instead of the hostess.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistant hostesses.

MISS JEAN LYANS' BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Miss Jean Lyans of 511 North Jackson street, entertained 12 of her little friends at a birthday party Wednesday afternoon, in honor of her eighth birthday. The guests enjoyed games and a frolic on the lawn and delicious refreshments were served, including the birthday cake, which in this case proved to be individual cakes with a tiny candle on each. The little hostess was happy in having with her for the day her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Furst of Los Angeles and her grandmother was the guest of honor at the party. The guests were Lottie Hudson, Dorothy Clark, Catherine Peck, Russel Newton, Albert Newton, Merle Newton, Jack McCartney, Mildred Fife, Mildred Randolph, Helen McCormick, Fern Johnson and Jeane Lyans.

UNUSUAL RAINFALL

The rain gauge of H. E. Bartlett has recorded a precipitation of .47 of an inch this morning which, when added to yesterday's rainfall makes a total for the storm of .75 inches or a seasonal rainfall of 13.47 inches.

Old timers are commenting on the unusual feature of a rainfall in May which is a month ordinarily characterized by a great deal of high fog and little rain.

ACCEPT INVITATIONS FROM G. A. R. AND LIBRARY BOARD

Knox Fire Engine on Blink Causes Discussion Looking to New One

At their regular meeting Tuesday night, city trustees voted to accept the invitation of the city library board to be its guests at the library on Harvard street, Tuesday evening next. It also voted to accept the invitation of the N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R., to participate in Memorial day exercises.

Rest Homes

Acting on the report of Health Officer Eckles against issuing a permit for a rest home at 336 West Colorado and a written protest signed by Mrs. Walker and others, the board voted to deny the request for such permit. A request from Mrs. Amy Crist for a similar permit for property on South Boynton street, on which the health officer had made a favorable report, went over for one week.

Spurred by the complaint of R. W. Meeker that he was being assessed for a strip of land which the city had obtained by condemnation proceedings, the board instructed the city engineer to notify the county surveyor of all such transfers. It also instructed the city clerk to advise Mr. Meeker that the city had no authority to refund the taxes paid by him.

Elks' Parade

A request that the city make an entry in the parade to be put on by the Elks at their great convention in July, was referred to the Chamber of Commerce.

Reports

The report of the city treasurer was received and ordered filed, also report of the building department showing 198 building permits issued in April and total fees of the department for that month of $1210. The city recorder's report showed $768 collected in fines for April.

City Manager's Recommendations

A communication from the city manager stated that the Knox fire engine inherited from the city of Tropico was constantly breaking down and seemed to be beyond repair; that the safety of the city seemed to demand another engine that could be depended upon. He recommended the purchase of a La France fire engine, to cost $12,500 under a lease contract, the first payment to be 25 per cent of the principal. Trustee Robinson expressed the opinion that Mr. Hinchcliff could put the engine in working condition and the board voted to authorize his employment for the purpose, for a sum not exceeding $250, President Stephenson voting 'no.'

Elks' Advertising

A request from Secretary Rhoades of the Chamber of Commerce for $25 to advertise Glendale in a magazine to be circulated among delegates to the great Elks' convention in July, was granted.

Grandview Street Names

The board authorized City Manager Watson to call a mass meeting for June 16, in the Grandview district, to discuss the renaming of streets.

A communication from the city manager relative to the cost of garbage collections, was referred to the committee of the whole. His recommendation that a permit to L. Bender to operate a portable popcorn machine be denied, was endorsed by the board. J. L. Booth was granted a permit to install a gasoline curb pump at 310 East Colorado.

George B. Woodberry was named by the board to act with J. C. Sherer as appraiser of the property of the Verdugo Water company which the city is considering purchasing.

Offutt Application Held Up

Action on the application of A. P. Offutt for a permit to build and operate a gasoline filling station at the scutheast corner of Broadway and Central avenue, was postponed one week because of negotiations in connection with the improvement of Broadway by taking out the jog at that point.

Grandview Water Bonds

Ordinance ordering draft of proceedings for Grandview district water bonds, was introduced.

The president of the board and the city clerk were instructed to execute new contract with Leslie C. Orndorff for the purchase at $1.50 a ton, of garbage delivered by the city at his ranch.

"LITTLE PRINCESS" AT PALACE GRAND

Sunshine and shadow, clear skies and rainy, alternated this afternoon in Glendale, just as they did in the life of Sarah Crewe, the heroine of "The Little Princess," in the matinee at the Palace Grand theater this afternoon.

Small performers are watching the sky to see if it gives promise of the evening performance, lest their audiences be lessened by inclement weather; but the chances are that weather or no weather, their admiring fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, uncles and aunts, to say nothing of doting grandfathers and grandmothers, will fill the theater.

"New, Better America" Miss Vermilye's Theme

so today and we are forced to realize that the position all over the world—no less here than in other countries—cannot be foreseen as to its results. Labor is in the saddle and what prejudices, customs and traditions of our nation will be ridden under the hoofs of that horse, no one can predict.

New Policies

"What do the new policies foretell? We are hearing a great deal about America returning to its proud isolation. Last winter there was a near-panic on Wall street. When it was dissected it was found to be due to a sudden and terrifying drop in foreign exchange. How is isolation possible to a nation? Is the United States in a position to be cut off from the contortions of the world? Who isolates us from Mexico, Japan or India? It is one of the great problems that has to be settled today and in it lies the seed of an immense change in all our world relations and internal policies.

"As a result of our policy of the open door we have come now to a point where we know that a great horde of those with bloood alien to our own is coming to us from lands with totally different ideals and traditions. That is the crux of the Japanese question. It is simply whether this nation is able to assimilate and take into its own body Orientals who have never given up their own land and must always remain Japanese, Chinese or Hindoos, no matter what their professions here may be. As we are now constituted today with the vote, the great lever in our national policies, we cannot take into our body politic those who can never be a part of it. It is not a question of how California will be affected by its own land laws, it is a question of what our nation can do with and stand from peoples who are unassimilable.

Immigration

"We have had three policies open to us in regard to immigration: The open door, which has made us the refuge of all who need refuge; the shut door, which lets no one in, and the third, the policy of restriction, and a law has been framed that will soon be passed under which only 3 per cent of the people now here will henceforth be admitted through our great ocean doors. This third policy to be put to the test, will determine whether we can so restrict those who come to us that we will receive from them an uplift and upbuilding such as we had in the beginning."

Pacific as a Commercial Center

She spoke of the changes going on which may bring the world's commercial center to the Pacific coast and which will influence California deeply and change the focus of the whole country. That will be made possible by rapid transit from one side of the country to the other through the Panama canal.

Soul of the Nation

In closing, she took up what she termed the sentimental side of her subject, declaring her belief that every nation, like every individual, has a soul, a higher aspiration toward which it should build its life and policies, not forgetting the ideals which were its birthright.

PROPOSED CURVE AT BROADWAY STUDIED BY CITY TRUSTEES

Defer Action on Offutt Application for Permit for Two Weeks

Considerable time was spent by City Trustees Thursday evening in the study of a blueprint map of the proposed improvement of West Broadway, which would take out the present jog in the street and substitute a curve. The map showed that six lots would be damaged. The Trustees have been requested to make the proposed assessment district large and have been told that residents of the neighborhood desire that the triangle that would be cut off and that now constitutes the southwest corner of Central avenue and Broadway should be converted into a little park.

In a communication addressed by City Manager Watson to the board the application of A. P. Offutt for a permit to build and operate a gasoline filling station on that corner and also for permission to remove trees was discussed, also a letter from the committee on railroads and public utilities of the Chamber of Commerce recommending the improvement as as most desirable and necessary and requesting that the City Manager cause to be made preliminary surveys and estimates of cost. Mr. Watson recommended that no action on Mr. Offutt's application be made pending consideration of coad continuation and proposed park by the Chamber of Commerce committee.

The Board adopted Manager Watson's recommendation, but with the understanding — in justice to Mr. Offutt—that action should not be deferred longer than two weeks.

CELEBRATE THEIR 48TH ANNIVERSARY

Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton today are celebrating the forty-eighth anniversary of their wedding with a dinner to a group of friends at their home, 801 East Wilson avenue.

A joyous circumstance in connection with the event is the fact that one of the guests is Rev. J. C. Kendricks of Pasadena, who performed the wedding ceremony for Mr. and Mrs. Norton back in Iowa, two score and eight years ago.

Beautiful iris in shades of lavender and yellow adorned the dinner table, where a bountiful dinner prepared by Mrs. Lester Jones, daughter of the celebrants, was enjoyed by Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Kendricks of Pasadena; Miss Blanche Morris, niece of Mrs. Norton, and Miss Pearl Packer, both of Iowa; Rev. W. T. Wilson of Los Angeles; Mrs. Lester Jones and the hosts.

The three reverend gentlemen at the dinner were members of the same conference back in Iowa in the olden days.

On Sunday Rev. and Mrs. Norton will hold another celebration of this event, when their guests will be their children in Los Angeles, who were unable to be present today.

LUNCHEON AND CARD PARTY

Mrs. Frank Ayars and Mrs. R. A. Puffer, sr., are entertaining today with a luncheon followed by cards at the Mary Louise Tea Room in Los Angeles. It will be a very pretty affair, the guests being: Mmes. Hazel Campbell, Colin Cable, G. D. Roach, L. N. Hagood, C. A. Parker, A. M. Draper, Charles Meadows, H. B. Howeth, Francis Worsley, A. A. Barton, J. I. Wernette, Walter Jones, A. H. Montgomery, C. H. Hutchinson, E. W. W. Hayward, E. P. Hayward, L. W. Needham, Charles Temple, R. E. Chase, Thomas Wood, R. A. Puffer, jr., and C. B. Lane of Burbank.

PROGRAM PROMISES MUSICAL TREAT

The community concert given by the Glendale Music Club at the high school auditorium this evening is a program that promises such a rare musical treat that, although the skies are being watched anxiously, it is likely that music lovers will attend in large numbers, rain or no rain.

NO ADS ALLOWED ON TREES

Motor Cops Trautwein and Collins spent nearly half a day yesterday tearing down advertising matter from trees, poles, fences, and all over the city. Placing such matter in those places is forbidden by ordinance and persons so doing risk prosecution.

GLENDALE GUARDS DRILL IN GYM

Shipment to Complete Equipment of 93 Men Now at Glendale Station

Because of the rain members of "Glendale's Own" National Guard company were unable to drill outside Thursday evening, but took possession of the boys' gym, where a drill was conducted for an hour and a half. About 50 members were present and four recruits enrolled. Major Cotton was on hand with two sergeant instructors, also Major Vestal.

Announcement was made of a shipment of equipment that is now at the Glendale station. It includes the regular rifles, eight light Browning automatic rifles, about 9600 rounds of ammunition and 18 automatic pistols. This shipment completes the equipment for 93 men.

BIG MACHINE HAMS LIGHT STANDARD

M. Gannon, jr., of 318 West Colorado, was driving his Hudson west on Broadway yesterday morning about 8:30 when, at the Kenwood crossing, in trying to avoid striking another car, he jammed his brakes on hard, causing his car to skid and strike the solid iron electrolier standard at the northwest corner, knocking it flat and damaging it to the extent of at least $125, according to city hall estimates. The body of the car had a big hole knocked in it and there was other serious damage done. Mr. Gannon narrowly escaped serious injury, the big standard just missing him as it fell.

WORK FOR RED CROSS RELIEF

Much work for Red Cross relief among the needy children of Europe was accomplished by the Nimble Fingers Club at their meeting on Tuesday evening, when they were entertained by Mrs. Winona Crawford, at hr home, 800 South Central avenue.

Interested in this worthy cause was shown by the fact that the sewing not completed was taken home by the ladies to be finished and turned in with despatch to Red Cross headquarters.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Griffin.

SMART LUNCHEON BY MRS. CLARKE

Mrs. Frederick A. Clarke of Oak street was hostess at a recent function at which about a dozen ladies were entertained for luncheon and a social and musical afternoon. It was a very pretty affair in which a pink color scheme was carried out in the floral centerpiece of Cecil Brunner roses and in the smart appointments of the table. The majority of guests were from Los Angeles, but a few Glendale ladies enjoyed Mrs. Clarke's hospitality, the list including Mrs. E. E. Hitchcock, Mrs. Albert, Mrs. William Justema and Mrs. Dwight Stephenson.

FROM CITY HALL RECORDS

A. D. Starr has moved from 236 North Belmont to 133 South Columbus; Mrs. Chas. Cress to 713 Orange Grove; Dr. Stow to 247 North Kenwood; M. E. Maloney to 114 Franklin court.

Instalations of light meters were ordered for O. M. Thomas, 1643 N. San Fernando road; F. K. Brown, 608 W. Doran; S. S. Beran, 615 Myrtle.

UTILITIES CONNECTIONS

For the first time in years, new water connections exceeded light. The public service department records show 134 of the former, bringing the total up to 5167, and 124 of the latter, total 5847.

MAY BE POSTPONED

Jupiter Pluvius is developing a fickleness that does well enough "back east," but is most perplexing here in Southern California where the people are wont to plan out-of-doors festivities at will after the winter rains are over, without fear of wet weather.

It's to be hoped that J. Pluvius has not yet learned to read English; for if he has, he will, as a matter of course, read the Glendale Daily Press, for everybody's doing it—and J. Pluvius will not want to be reckoned a nobody. But if he reads the above criticism of his constancy, he might be mean enough to pour down rain on Glendale all dal tomorrow and spoil many plans, among them the May festival of the Ladies of the Church of the Holy Family at La Ramada.

These ladies, however, are taking no chances on the whims and vagaries of J. Pluvius. They announce that in case of rain the May festival will be postponed to a later date to be announced later.

TO UNVEIL STATUE OF WASHINGTON

(By International News Service)

RICHMOND, Va., May 6.—Six years ago the state of Virginia tendered to the British government a bronze duplicate of the famous Houdon statue of General George Washington which stands in the rotunda of the state capitol, the statue having been made during the life of General Washington. It is life size, the subject posing for the sculptor. The gift was tendered through Governor Henry Carter Stuart, and it would have been presented during his administration, but the war came and the matter was held back.

The statue has been completed and is now in place in Trafalgar square, London, where it is to be unveiled June 30 with imposing ceremonies. Under the act which provides for the presentation, the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor B. F. Buchanan and Speaker Richard L. Brewer, of the house, and Colonel John W. Williams, clerk of the house, comprise the commission. The Governor, being unable to attend, designated Dr. Henry Louis Smith, of Washington and Lee University, as his representative, and he has accepted.

The Virginians will leave here on the night of June 9 for New York and will sail on the Lapland on June 11, reaching London about June 22. Several of the members will be accompanied by their wives, and Miss Brewer will make the trip, as will Lieutenant John W. Williams, jr., former member of the American forces in Europe.

Following the presentation ceremonies the Americans expect to make a tour of the battlefields, spending several weeks, returning to America the latter part of July. It is believed that former Governor Henry Carter Stuart, who was governor when the gift was made, and who is now in England, will be on hand. He has already been invited to attend the ceremonies.

GERMANY MUST PAY HER WAR INDMNITY

(By International News Service)

LONDON, May 6.—The allied powers formally called upon Germany today to pay her war indemnity in full and to meet all the other demands of the treaty of Versailles under the penalty of military invasion. The allied ultimatum was signed by the allied statesmen attending the supreme council at 1 o'clock and one hour later was delivered to Dr. Steiner, the German ambassador to England. The ultimatum will expire at midnight, May 11.

The detailed financial terms, as issued this afternoon, reveal the demand that Germany pay within 25 days 1,000,000,000 gold marks, which is one-half of the initial indemnity.

Within 25 days the allies will establish a committee on guarantees. It will include a representative of the United States in the event that government desires participation.

THREE-YEAR-OLD IS 'MUGGED' BY POLICE

(By International News Service)

DENVER, May 6.—Although he is only three years of age, Paul Everett Collins has been "mugged" by the custodian of the Rogue's Gallery at police headquarters and his finger-print record taken under the Bertillon system.

But Paul is not a criminal.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Collins, who recently adopted the child, brought him to the city hall and asked that the records be made as a precautionary measure in case Paul is ever kidnaped. The foster parents said they feared someone might attempt to take the boy away from them and had the records filed at the county recorder's office.

The fingerprint expert of the Denver police department said he had "mugged" many hard-boiled criminals but this was the first occasion in the history of the department that he had been called upon to record an "infant in arms."

MARINE STRIKE NOW FIGHT TO FINISH

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 6.—"The marine strike is now a fight to the finish," Wm. S. Brown, head of the marine engineers, announced today after cancelling an appointment with Secretary of Labor Davis, at which the secretary had planned to continue his efforts to reach a settlement of the strike.

Brown announced that the committee of marine workers, which came here from New York several days ago for the conferences, had returned to New York, and that he did not believe there would be any further conferences in an attempt to settle the strike.

"The shipowners won't give in," said Brown. "Why should we make concessions? We won't accept a wage reduction and we won't accept the welfare plan of the Standard Oil. It is now a fight to the finish and we will tie up every ship on the ocean before it is over."

SOCIALIST SLATES REVOLT IN ENGLAND

(By International News Service)

VIENNA, May 6—The world-wide revolution which will "emancipate the working classes" will break forth in England, Frederic Adler, noted socialist leader and president of the Workingmen's council of Vienna, predicted in a statement here today.

Adler based his assertion on the growing industrial unrest, instanced by repeated strikes in important industries in England.

Adler denounced the Bolshevik regime in Russia as "the fiction of Socialism" and called upon Lenin and Trotzky to return to "true soviet principles" by setting up councils like those formed in Austria. He charged that in foreign affairs the Bolsheviks use methods of diplomacy "like those employed by the late czar."

CERRITOS PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

Special Maytime Program Presented to Large Audience Despite Weather

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Cerritos avenue school held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the school building. In spite of the threatening weather there was a record attendance. The assembly room was crowded to its limit and many mothers stood in the hall. The occasion was a special Maytime program given by some of the children of the school.

The little tots of the kindergarten and first grade gave a delightful little May pole dance, which was followed by the "Swing Song," beautifully sung by second grade children.

Selections from "Hiawatha" were very well given by children of the third grade, who also presented a little sketch called, "Three Little Lads at School."

Some of the fourth grade entertained their audience with a dainty little flower playlet, entitled "The Sessions." "A Visit From Mother Goose," was the title of a little play put on by the sixth grade, in which about 20 children took part. The children were in costume and their funny antics kept the audience in laughter most of the time. Mother Goose's children were all there, including Boy Blue, Bo Peep, Tommy Tucker, Mary Quite Contrary, and all the rest.

Miss Elsie Whitney, a talented young lady of the eighth grade, gave a reading depicting the serious and the humorous side of "Mother's" character. It was entitled, "Mother, Maw and the Auto."

All of the children who took part in the program did remarkably well. A great deal of credit belongs to the teachers, who planned the entertainment and were responsible for the success of the afternoon.

At the conclusion of the program the annual election of officers took place, and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. E. L. Adams; vice president, Mrs. A. P. Biggs; secretary, Mrs. P. J. Priaulx; treasurer, Mrs. S. C. Maranville; historian, Miss Vesta D. Diggelow.

Mrs. Danford of the Carnegie library talked to the mothers on "Books for Children to Read." Mrs. Danford said she never refused an invitation to talk to Glendale mothers, for she felt that she was working along the same lines that they were and that she considered herself their supplement. She spoke of the wonderful opportunity a librarian has, by directing a child's reading to help mold his life and to keep his thoughts on what is finest and best. She also spoke of the splendid work being done by the Mothers' Reading Circles in Glendale and commended the fine spirit of helpfulness, which pervades these meetings.

Mrs. E. B. Moore, the president, announced that on May 20, a festival is to be held by the Glendale Federation of P.-T. A.' on the grounds at the home of Mrs. John Robert White, at the corner of West Lexington drive and Orange street. Each school in the city will do its share toward furnishing the program and there will be booths for the sale of fancy articles, candy, ice cream, etc. A large attendance is desired.

The meeting was followed by a social hour, during which punch and cookies were served.

HAD OWN CODE IN ROMANCE

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 6.—"Jim" McDonough, milk wagon driver, was slain today, the police believe, because he followed a code of his own in dealing with the illicit romance of a girl and another man.

The girl—Thelma Shomo, 16—had told McDonough of her threatened disgrace. McDonough, following his code, went straight to the other man and "had it out with him."

Today they found McDonough in a welter of broken milk bottles in a darkened passageway with a bullet in his heart. Detectives found two caps apparntly dropped by the slayers.

Detectives brought Miss Shomo to headquarters and she told the story of how "Jim" had sought to defend her. She also named the man in the case and the police started in search of him.

William Desmond, hero of scores of stage and screen plays, has decided to enter vaudeville and has been booked for an Orpheum circuit tour.

TO KEEP GOOD NATURED

(By H. Addington Bruce.)

"Half the ill-temper in the world is the result of poor ventilation"—thus affirms an editorial writer in Public Health, official organ of the Michigan State Health department.

It is a pretty sweeping statement—more than close to being an over-statement. Nevertheless it has the merit of emphatically calling attention to the direct relation that most certainly exists between bad temper and bad air, a relation too frequently forgotten by those who perhaps wonder at their own tendency to feel unaccountably "grouchy" on occasions.

How often it happens that, after a night of high winds, people wake up strangely irritable, even though they have slept as soundly as usual.

"I must have eaten something that disagreed with me," is the explanation they are most likely to offer themselves. But they need not throw the blame either on their food or on their digestive organs—if, because of the wind, they have been sleeping in a room with closed windows.

And everybody knows that an entire household may become crotchety in the extreme after two or three days of weather making indoor living imperative. It is not the mere being indoors that causes the trouble, however. It is being indoors in a house perhaps not only underventilated, but also so overheated that the air is unduly dry. As Public Health editorially remarks:

"A temperature of 65 degrees Fahrenheit where the air is fresh is far healthier and more acceptable to the the normal young or middle-aged individual than a temperature of 70 or more degrees in a vitiated atmosphere."

Common, too, is the phenomenon of irritability developing among office, store, and factory workers toward the close of the day. Everything, it may be, has gone smoothly until 3:30 or 4 o'clock. Then, in this worker and that one, signs of ill-temper develop, to become increasingly evident until the working day is done.

Fatigue from the day's labors is usually supposed to account for this. But observation has repeatedly shown that in the same office, store, or factory there is far less staff irritability at the close of days of good ventilation in the working place than when, owing to carelessness or severe weather, the ventilation has been below normal.

And for this well-established relation between the state of the temper there is an explanation as adequate as it is simple.

The breathing of air deficient in oxygen means failure to secure for the blood supply the purifying factor it most needs. This in turn means some degree of poisoning of the entire organism, including the brain and the nervous system in general. And irritability is one of the surest results of toxic action of any sort on the nervous system.

Hence, albeit there are many causes of irritability other than foul air, there can be no doubt whatever that fresh air is one of the best conservers of good nature that preventive medicine can prescribe.

SODA WATER HELPED

"Jerusalem was captured with soda water," say the Tommies who took the city. Behind the facetious remark is a world of truth, says Francis J. W. Henry, for the morale and heart of the British and Hindu fighting men in that parching struggle across the desert were held up in the main by the plentiful supply of soda water, which enabled the men to withstand the terrible heat and which was found to be infinitely more useful than plain water in quenching thirst.

Every regiment in Mesopotamia carries its soda water making machine, and a daily ration of two bottles per man is dealt out. It is regarded as indispensable, and in one instance when a Turkish attack threatened to take a cannon and a soda water machine, the Hindus gave the former no thought and risked life and limb to haul the latter to safety.

It was found wise to equip the troops with this form of liquid refreshment, owing to the poisoning of the wells by the Turks, whose natural savagery has been amplified by German kultur. The machines will never be dropped from tropical military units now, say British officers, so firmly have they been established in the affections of the men.

SPEND AT HOME

Why is it that the average resident of a city the size of Glendale seems to feel it necessary to spend his money in some nearby larger city? Why should the merchants of the "small town," which is the backbone of the American commonwealth, be deprived of trade which is rightfully theirs?

The United States is a nation made up of units, and the most potent of these units is that form of municipality known as the town, or city. The individual is almost powerless to give concrete aid in such a time of readjustment as we are now passing through, but a group of individuals banded together in a working unit can accomplish much. By loyal support and backing, such a town as Glendale can be made a more important link in national affairs.

The definite way in which this backing may be given is by supporting the merchants of the town, for "a city is no bigger than its business," and it is the merchants who carry on the business.

Canada is rushing wheat into the United States to beat the new tariff which Democrats "just know" will not help the farmers' market.

Second thought sometimes comes too late to save the situation, but it is better than no thought at all.

One reason the birds get along so well probably is that they do not try to live beyond their means.

There is always some satisfaction in feeling that the Irish situation could hardly be worse.

ONE PLACE THEY AVOID

We have no wish to cast any reflection on the courage of the prohibitionist, but we can draw our own conclusions from the fact that we haven't noticed them rushing to Ireland.

TROPHIES

Madge—"Did you send his presents back when you broke the engagement?"

Marjorie—"Of course not. Did you send back the silver cups you had won when you resigned from the golf club?"

READY TO OBLIGE

Husband (angrily)—"What! no supper ready? This is the limit! I'm going to a restaurant."

Wife—"Wait just five minutes."

Husband—"Will it be ready then?"

Wife—"No; but I'll be ready to go with you."

WHAT ARE WE?

London Punch says the United States of America isn't a nation, but a picnic.

Wrong again, old dear; it's a wild west show on the meetin'-house grounds.

It's a strat-jacket with blue trimmings.

It's Captain Kidd preaching temperance and Priscilla Alden smoking.

It's—it's—well, maybe it is a picnic at that. If a picnic's a thing where you gulp indigestible viands covered with ants under a tender sky in which maybe a thunder-storm is brewing, and the car has a blowout and no pare tire, and the flowers are lovely amid the poison ivy, and the kids fight and the wife nags and you've forgotten your pipe and the view from the hill is magnificent—yes, maybe we're a picnic after all.

GUMLESS "GUMMER"

Small Brother—"Will you please give me a stick of chewing gum, Mr. Blunderly?"

Mr. Blunderly—"I don't chew gum, Bobbie. What makes you think I do?"

Small Brother—"Because I heard my sister say when you were at the dance the other night you gummed the whole party."

THEN IT BEGAN

Private Squib—"What's bitin' you, anyway?"

Private Squab—"Nothing's bitin' me."

Private Squib—"Well, you gave me a nasty look."

Private Squab—"I never gave it to you; you were born with it."

HARD FOR HIM

"Is that new hired man a hard worker?"

"I'll say he is," replied Farmer Corntassel. "I don't know anybody that work seems to go harder with than it does with him."

THE APPLE COATS AND SUITS

One clothing merchant uses the apple as a trademark. He claims there wouldn't have been any clothing business if it hadn't been for the apple.

AN OLD SPANISH DOCUMENT TELLS TREASURE'S LOCATION

Curious Variations in the Spanish Spelling of the Words Point to the Antiquity of the Papers—Discoverer of Documents to Organize Treasure Searching Party

OAKLAND, May 6.—Will three sheets of time-worn parchment, almost illegible and written in Spanish of the 15th century, be the means of discovering a fabulous treasure amounting to perhaps millions of dollars in gold and silver in the desert mountains of Imperial county, close to the Mexican border?

John Meyeroff, prospector and discoverer of the centuries old documents, believes they will and has organized a party to search for the treasure.

Written in 1553

The manuscript consists of three torn and mutilated pages written or lettered on both sides in the Spanish language. Not only the date but curious variations in the Spanish spelling of the words point to the antiquity of the papers.

They tell how the party of Spaniards set forth from Spain in 1553 and ravelled through North America, finally encountering a party of Frenchmen who had been shipwrecked and who were without supplies. The two parties joined forces and traveled more, finally discovering a great mine where so much gold was found that all of the horses, mules and oxen with them were laden with it and the explorers themselves started to make the return journey on foot.

At the mine, the papers tell, one of the party died. With him was buried papers giving his identity and laying claim to the mine for his heirs in accordance with the old Spanish law. The documents which Meyeroff has discovered not only tell where the treasure was later buried, but give directions for reaching the old mine where the discoverer was buried.

The party was returning to the outposts of civilization, which then had not reached beyond New Orleans or Mexico City, when it was surrounded by 4000 Indians, who kept them from obtaining food until they all died of starvation.

Unable to Escape

One by one the party ate the horses and mules, hoping for a chance to escape from the awful fate, it is recited in the papers. Seeing that salvation was to be hoped for in vain, they took the treasure and buried it in the lonely wilds of the Imperial county mountains and set down the record of where the treasure was buried.

The documents were discovered by Meyeroff in a most unusual manner. He had been prospecting in the hill desert of that section for months, traveling alone, when he noticed a large balanced rock. For mere amusement he tried to push this rock over, but his efforts were unavailing. He tried several more times and when he was finally successful, there, under the rock and wrapped in an old hide, was the well-preserved record of 350 years ago telling of the ill-fated party and its lost treasure.

Having made his discovery some eight months ago, the prospector retired to Potholes to make a study of the documents. He knew nothing of the Spanish language, but with the aid of an old worn Spanish dictionary and by adroitly questioning Mexicans in the little old desert town he learned of the language to piece out the story of the exploring party.

He took his documents to the University of California that a permanent record might be made of them for historical research purposes and that copies might be made for the party of modern explorers to use in searching for the treasure.

Faded Ink with Chemicals

Professor Herbert T. Bolton, foremost expert on early Spanish exploration in North America, has studied the portion of the documents which Mexerhoff has brought west with him, much of which has been rendered illegible by the fading of the ink, but which it is hoped to restore by chemical means, and says that there is a possibility that these papers will form the missing link in one of the tragedies of the Southwest.

The expedition of which he says the documents may be the original record is that of Francisco Leyva de Bonilla and Antonio Guitierrez de Humana, which was undertaken at about the date of the desert-buried documents.

Written Generation Later

This expedition is known only by records written a generation later from tradition. It was, like that of the new-found papers, totally destroyed by Indians, save for a single couple, a man and a mulatto woman, and it, too, carried a great gold and silver treasure which has been much sought by prospectors and archaeologists, but never found.

This party spent about a year among the pueblos and set out toward the northeastward and entered Kansas and may have gone as far as the Platt river. They turned backward, however, and on the return trip Humana murdered Leyva, tradition tells, and took command of the expedition.

It is on this fact of the trip as well as other details of the places visited on the expedition that Bolton expects to connect the two records and establish the authenticity of the new-found papers. These elements of the trip are taken up in the part of the document which Meyeroff has left with his eastern relatives.

Historic Documents

There is, Professor Bolton points out, not a great probability that even if the treasure were buried at the place indicated in the documents it is still there. It may have been found by later explorers or it may have been removed by the Indians which massacred the Spanish party.

"Of course, I am not interested in the treasure," says Professor Bolton, "but I would like to shed new light on the expedition of Humana and Leyva through these documents, or perhaps establish the fact of a hitherto unknown expedition into New Mexico through these documents."

A copy of the legible portion of the first page of the paper in the original language and spelling has been made by Meyerhoff, as follows:

"We testify in good faith that having sailed from Spain in 1553 A. D. and having traveled in various parts of this continent and not having encountered anything but savage Indians, we have now come upon an expedition of Frenchmen whose supplies had been destroyed by the elements. We had a force of 200 men on June 24, ——, and for purposes of added force we took with us the 87 Frenchmen. Yesterday we were attacked by —— savages. At the same time we have found gold and silver . . . In an encounter with the savages our forces were reduced, so that we now have but 94 Spaniards and 33 Frenchmen and we have been obliged to bury our fabulous riches, as we do not have hopes of living since we have been attacked by the barbarous inhabitants of the country. We have deposited these records of the nobles and the civilized people in the belief that our children may some day find them in the name of the Saint and the Holy Mother of the Christian Church, who we pray shall have mercy upon us."

LA RAMADA HEARING OF R. R. COMMISSION

Lowering of Pacific Electric Tracks at Stocker Street Desired

Announcement is made that a hearing by the state railroad commission will be held at La Ramada at 2 o'clock May 16, relative to the lowering of Pacific Electric tracks at Stocker street. The appeal for the lowering of the tracks was made by the Casa Verdugo Improvement association, for which H. H. Harris is acting as attorney. The association hopes there will be a large attendance of citizens prepared to testify before the commission in favor of the lowering to grade of these tracks.

"GLEN AND DALE"

Glen and Dale feel that there is one committee planning for the convention from which you haven't heard.

It is the reception committee, and while its duties do not last through the convention, its work is important. One group plans to go to San Fernando and board the Valley Special which is scheduled to arrive in Glendale about 10:30 Saturday morning, June 25. Burbank young people and pages and guides will go with this delegation to welcome and check baggage for our visitors from the north.

Another group plans to go to the city or a station beyond and greet our friends from San Bernardino and Riverside, who are coming on a Salt Lake Special. It seems strange to think of a real passenger train on these tracks.

Other groups will be on duty in Glendale to welcome those coming on Pacific Electric. All visitors will easily recognize Glen and Dale for they will wear the sombrero featured at Whittier and all county conventions.

This committee in charge of Carol Duncan, chairman, Doris Ingledue, vice chairman and H. S. Wilcox, secretary, will work with the pages and guides and transportation committees to make all delegates feel at home.

PRINCESS LOUISE TELLS OF TRAGEDIES

(By International News Service)

LONDON, May 6.—"I owe nothing but misfortune to my royal origin. My life represents a succession of fatalities which I was powerless to avert the final denouement. I have been a victim ever since my girlish feet were led into devious paths. I have always suffered defeat."

These words came from Princess Louise of Belgium, the daughter of King Leopold II., who, in her book, "My Own Affairs," published recently retraces "the road of my Calvary." She gives to the world some amazing revelations of the intrigues at "the most corrupt court in Europe," where she lived for over 20 years.

"Married in 1874 at 17 to Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg, I expected to find in marriage the joys that a husband and child can give. I have had bitter proof to the contrary."

Imprisoned in An Asylum

For 33 years she was tied to a husband she loathed—the marriage was annulled in 1907. In 1898 she had been placed in an asylum—"mad, for reasons of state." There she remained until, after seven or eight years, she escaped and in Paris was declared sane.

"Driven to Munich by the war, then to Budapest, taken prisoner by Hungarian Bolshevists, I have survived the European tempest, and I have seen all those who disowned and crushed me beaten and punished.

"On the day when I was being searched by Hungarian Bolshevists I heard one of them say to another: 'Here is a king's daughter who is poorer than I am.'"

Of her wedding day Prince Louise speaks with horror.

"I am not, I am sure, the first woman, who, after having lived in the clouds during her engagement, has been as suddenly hurled to the ground on her marriage night, and who, bruised and mangled in her soul, has fled from humanity in tears.

"I am not the first woman who has been the victim of false modesty and excessive reserve, attributable, perhaps, to the hope that the delicacy of a husband, combined with natural instincts, would arrange all for her, but who was told nothing by her mother."

To Empress Francis Joseph, Princess Louise attributes her later misfortunes. She remarks with bitterness that she has known the hatred which nature cannot conceive, "the hatred of my son for his mother."

Tsar Was Magician

Concerning ex-Tsar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, her brother-in-law, Princess Louise relates a strange story:

"I have seen, I still see in him, a kind of modern necromancer; a fin de siecle magician * * * he must have been possessed by a power beyond this earth. But he did not believe in God; he believed in the devil * * *

"I asked myself to what fanatical sect, to what Satanic brotherhood he belonged in his early days, doubtless with the idea of furthering his ambitions and his extraordinary dreams of the future.

"I remember that in our palace at Vienna, Ferdinand would sometimes ask me to play to him when we were alone in the evening. He insisted upon the room being only dimly lit. He would then come near the piano and listen in silence.

"At midnight he would stand up solemnly, his features drawn, contracted. He then looked at the clock and listened to the first of the 12 strokes, and when they were nearing the end he would say: 'Play the march from "Aida".'

"Then, withdrawing to the middle of the room, he would strike a ceremonial attitude and repeat incomprehensible words which frightened me.

"Ferdinand used to articulate cabalistic formulas, stretching out his arms with his body bent and his head thrown backward. Among the mysterious phrases a word which sounded like koptor, koft or cophte, was often repeated. One day I asked him to write it down. He traced letters of which I could make nothing, excepting that I seemed to recognize some kind of Greek characters.

"I Call the Devil and He Comes"

"After these seances I questioned him, because while they were proceeding I had to be silent and play the march from "Aida." He invariably answered: 'The devil exists. I call on him and he comes.'

"I did not believe this; I mean to say, I did not believe in the devil's actual visit, but I was nevertheless a little frightened, and when my brother-in-law once again began his incantations I would look around to see if there was anything extraordinary in the room. But there was nothing unusual, excepting Ferdinand, and my own curiosity—and perhaps the unrevealed vision of both our futures."

Later, at dinner, Ferdinand said to Princess Louise: "You see everything here. All is my kingdom. I lay it, myself included, at your feet." Again that evening he said brusquely: "It is the last time I shall offer what I have offered. Do you understand?"

I shook my head and murmured a frightened 'no.' I must have looked as pale as wax. Ferdinand's features took on a sinister expression. He too, turned pale, and in a hoarse voice he threatened me, saying sneeringly: "Take care, you will repent this, by 'kophte'."

The Prince of Coburg and Princess Louise were often the guests of their relative, Queen Victoria.

John Brown Repulses Prince

Princess Louise, describing Queen Victoria's evening drives at Windsor and in the Isle of Wight, says:

"Preceding the queen, a plaid on his arm, a flask of whisky swung over his shoulder, came John Brown, the faithful Scotchman, whose doings occupied such a prominent position in the Court Circular * * *.

"He led the way, esconced himself in the brake drawn by two gray horses and the drive—which lasted about two hours—began.

"Even the queen's children experienced John Brown's autocracy.

"It happened that the Prince of Wales, afterward the great King Edward VII., once wanted to see his mother on urgent and unexpected business. But John Brown opened the door of the queen's room and said decisively: 'You cannot see the queen, sir.'"

WOMEN STIRRED BY D. A. R. PLEA

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 6.—Daughters of the American Revolution, take an active part in America's Evolution!

Thus Kathryn Smith Johnson of Los Angeles, charges her sister D. A. R.'s, who have been in convention in Washington.

Give four children to the Republic, the California member urges each feminine descendant of pioneers.

Don't permit the sturdy strain of our native stock to die out; advance Americanization by increasing the posterity of the hardy pilgrims; conserve their early fortitude. So the western delegate offers her resolution.

Various comment has grown out of the suggestion of Kathryn Smith Johnson, coming from fellow members, clubwomen, mothers and women by whom the care of children has been taken up as a social problem. Among these last is Mrs. Oliver Harriman, a mother and a philanthropist, who approves the resolution.

Mrs. Harriman Favors Plan

"I think the idea is a splendid one," said Mrs. Harriman recently. "It is a good thing to realize and put into words the responsibility that is due the republic.

"To rear children in American ideals is a fine ambition for women and it is the thing that makes life happiest.

"There is no real life for a woman without children. That is all a woman's life. It is an excellent idea to make wives feel this responsibility to the country, as well as to themselves and to their families. I hope the resolution is adopted by the D. A. R."

Some members of this organization agree with Mrs. Harriman's views and some others do not.

Source of Envy

Mrs. Simon Baruch, regent of the Knickerbocker Chapter of the D. A. R., heartily endorses the resolution.

"I agree with the idea that the descendants of the pioneers should help to perpetuate their race. I am happy to say that I am the mother of four glorious sons myself.

"Every woman envies the mother of children. We may occasionally feel sorry for the very poor woman with a large family, but as a usual thing the childless woman covets the little ones of the happy mother.

"Her joy will come afterward to the mother of many. There will be recompenses later for the woman who has endured hardships for her offspring. They bring the greatest measure of happiness.

"We should have proper training for motherhood. Not the promiscuous street corner knowledge of parenthood, but careful training given in our churches.

"Mothers should rear their children carefully, be good mothers, assist little ones to good citizenship."

But just because one is a D. A. R. does not necessarily signify that one agrees with other national members who may happen to offer resolutions.

Mrs. Oveido M. Bostwick, member of the Washington Heights Chapter of the D. A. R., expresses herself as greatly opposed to the adopting of any such resolution.

"I think that such action is an impertinence to all the members and to every American woman," said Mrs. Bostwick.

"Family life and the size of a family are personal matters—they cannot be regulated by adopting resolutions.

"I realize that our foreign population seems to have more children than the native-born Americans and those descended from the early settlers, but I do not think any good American woman is shirking her duties.

"Who is this Kathryn Johnson? Is she married or single and how many children has she?

"Women are intelligent enough to realize that they should have children and rear them properly, but to say that every woman should have four is ridiculous.

"No woman wants any interference in her own personal affairs—she resents it.

"To hear about this makes me wish I had gone to the convention in Washington. I certainly would have something to say against such a resolution.

Says Women Know Their Duty

"The American race won't die out. Our women are as good mothers, as responsible in their views on duty to country and family as any in the world. And they are patriotic enough not to want the newcomers to our shores to become the only perpetuators of our race.

"But the suggestion that each woman pledge herself to bring four children into the world, regardless of circumstances, is simply outrageous. Such resolutions and ideas belong in the sacred confines of the family circle and not elsewhere.

"I have been a mother twice, and have lost one child," Mrs. Bostwick added. "I believe every American wife will wish to have children and that we do not need to worry about the future of our country."

Mrs. Bostwick is, besides being a D. A. R., a member of the Holland Dames and first vice president of the Washington Headquarters Society.

Whether or not the descendants of Revolutionary pioneers shall each give to the country four more who may date back their ancestry to 1776 has not yet been passed as a resolution, or unanimously agreed upon as a principle.

The idea is not without its merits, but it is a fact that its apparently arbitrary regulation of families might antagonize mny who cherish views of independence, especially regarding numbers of offspring.

Stefansson at Chautauqua

Famous Explorer Comes on Second Night With His Remarkable Story of the Polar Regions

The cardinal lecture event of the week for all Chautauquans comes on the second night when Ellison-White presents Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the famous Arctic explorer and discoverer of the "blonde Eskimo," for the first time on the Chautauqua platform.

Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, said of him: "Stefansson has taken the white man's brains into the Polar regions, and has evolved a way to make himself absolutely self-sustaining. He could have lived in the Arctic fifteen and a half years, just as easily as five and a half years. By combining great natural physical ability with hard, practical common sense, he has accomplished what he has accomplished, and made an absolute record."

Stefansson's lecture has thrilled audiences everywhere. He has a remarkable story to tell and unusual ability in presenting its fascinating details graphically.

HI Y CLUBS GUESTS OF ALHAMBRA CLUB

Glendale Hi Y clubs were guests of the Alhambra Hi Y club at a supper in Alhambra last evening, in honor of the high school clubs in the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A.

This same group met last fall to discuss the problems in their own particular high schools, and to consider ways and means in which the High Y could be of use in solving them.

Last evening's meeting, near the close of the school year, was convened for the purpose of relating what success each "Y" had met with in meeting these problems.

High schools represented were Alhambra, Bonito, Citrus, Covina, Glendale and Monrovia.

Glendale speakers were George Jordan, who told what Glendale Hi Y stood for and Clarence Hall, who mentioned the high spots in the Glendale organization's work of the year. Among the lines of accomplishment mentioned were: Regular meetings throughout the year; freshmen interested in Y work and banquet given them; supper given to all Y group leaders and their club presidents; money raised for Chinese famine relief; tickets sold for father-and-son banquet and fathers found for 50 fatherless boys; all the force of the organization's influence exerted for clean living, with special emphasis on the eliminaation of profanity; educational and religious by outside men secured; educationl trips and hikes arranged, also theater parties and swimming parties. In consequence of Y influences, a great many boys have taken a definite stand for Christian life.

Professor Leinbergere gave an exhibition of feats of strength and a talk on the harmful effects of tobacco.

Charles Paddock and his talk on "The Satisfaction of Achievement," completely won the hearts of the boys present; he told of his experience in various athletic meets, including the great Olympic in Belgium, always modestly omitting the relation of his own prowess and emphasizing the success of other athletes.

He also spoke of the evils that grow out of the use of tobacco, and the fact that no man could expect to achieve in athletics who had depleted his powers by smoking and dissipation.

Twenty-five Glendale boys were present at the meeting.

JUNIOR MUSIC TO USHER TONIGHT

The Junior Music club is an auxiliary of the Glendale Music club and is composed of the youth of the community. All young people from the age of 14 to 20 years are eligible to membership, talent not necessary.

The officers of the association are: President, Vida Knapp; first vice president, Constance Braasch; second vice president, Julia Robinson; secretary, Genevieve Mulligan; treasurer, Kenneth Jackson; historian, William Farner. DULL SESSION OF CONGRESS

Chamberlain's Invectives, La Follette's Fire, Reed's Denunciations Missed

By DAVID M. CHURCH
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Congress is getting back to normalcy and worse.

After two war congresses, replete with fireworks, the sixty-seventh congress now in session gives promise of being a pretty tame sort of an affair.

Already the sharp-nosed women and the long-haired men, who are daily 'gallery birds' in the senate and the house, are complaining that it isn't like the old days, when one had a three-ringed circus and a vaudeville show all rolled up in one session of congress.

The control of this congress rests entirely in the hands of the Republican party, and the Democratic membership still seems to be dazed by the November disaster, for it hasn't shown any fight and appears disposed to let the Republicans run the congress without obstruction.

Voice In the Wilderness

"Pat" Harrison, the virile young senator from Mississippi, who was the most ardent supporter of the recent candidate James M. Cox, breaks loose in the senate occasionally and cuts a few oratorical "didoes," giving Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican leader, no little annoyance. But Harrison's attacks appear entirely unsupported by his colleagues. The Democrats just wander off in the cloak room and let Harrison fight all alone. John Sharp Williams, of Kentucky, who was always counted upon to lay down a barrage against the Republicans at 4:30 each afternoon during the war congresses, is very irregular in his offensive this session. Oscar Underwood, Democratic leader, and Senator Hitchcock have to be forced into the fray, and altogether the senate is an apathetic body. Nobody seems to care but Henry Cabot Lodge and he gets everything he wants, anyway.

Vituperations Missed

Of course, there are little flurries, but nothing to compare to the verbal battles of the old days, when George Chamberlain, of Oregon, appeared before a "packed house" in his "undertaker's clothes" and delivered himself of a stinging rebuke to Woodrow Wilson; when the late Ollie James, of Kentucky, boomed in reply that "the president is walking a tight rope across a chasm of blood—don't shake the rope"; when Henry Cabot Lodge in his cold austerity bisected the league of nations; when Hiram Johnson, of California, shook his fist and denounced the peace pact; when wee Robert La Follette, of Wisconsin, walked over to Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, and snapped his fingers in the blood-red face of the irate Arkansan; when Jim Reed, of Missouri, launched a wave of sarcasm against Herbert Hoover; when the late Ben Tillman pounded his fists in defense of the U. S. Navy; when Joe Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, shouted denunciation of A. Mitchell Palmer; when the late "Bill" Stone, of Missouri, shifted his tobacco and delivered himself of some caustic remarks on foreign affairs. Those were the happy days for the senate gallery gods.

In the house the membership is sufficiently large so that any belligerent may always find an opponent, but mass attacks seem to be a thing of the past. It is true that there are skirmishes, but they are merely verbal duels. Nobody enthuses but the two participants. Champ Clark, the long-time leader of the Democrats, has passed into that world where there are no politics, and the minority is tossing about with no one to lead them on into battle. Claude Kitchlin, of Scotland Neck, N. C., who once was a giant in the battles in the well of the house, is not physically fit for exertion. Others who might take up the cudgels for Democracy seem inclined to a "laizzez faire" policy.

Gallery Gods Sigh

The gallery gods sit and look down on the house, with perhaps a scant dozen members present, sigh and yearn for the good old days when southern congressmen placed their hands on their hips and jumped to their feet in heated reply; when Champ Clark pulled his great body out of his seat and cut loose with his deep voice in a drawling denunciation of the Republicans; when Tom Heflin, of Alabama, and Billy Mason, of Illinois, stood man to man and swapped oratorical punches; when Jimmy Gallivan, of Massachusetts, fought tooth and nail against prohibition; when Uncle Joe Cannon joined the fray with his pointed and witty shafts; when Billy Murray, of Boston, and the sergeant-at-arms clashed on the floor of the house, and when each day's session was but a series of battles.

Those were the happy days for the gallery gods!

Now, even Blanton, of Texas—who has been christened "bleating" Blanton by Samuel Gompers—doesn't have very much to say.

Unless someone starts a real row in congress soon it will be a dull session and with hot weather in the immediate offing, the hopes for a fight of real proportions rest mainly in Tex Rickard's promised Jersey City encounter.

Right now it begins to look as if the gallery gods will have to go to the "movies" for their entertainment, at least there is very little of it in congress.

Sam Lewis Believes in English Tongue

Well-Known Tenor Has Little Patience With Singing in Foreign Language Exclusively

Sam Lewis, the prominent Welsh tenor, who is singing for Chautauqua audience this year, has little patience with the concert singer who tries to "foist foreign languages on Americans." Mr. Lewis says—"I believe the time is not far off when American audiences are going to demand more singing in a language they can understand. Personally, I never sing even one group in a foreign tongue unless it is specifically requested."

Mr. Lewis has made rapid strides in the music world of late years. He is appearing this season at the head of his own company. Assisting artists are Amber Hopkins, reader, Allen Ament, violinist, and Florence Berney, pianist and accompanist.

'VAN NUYS NIGHT' AT K. OF P. LODGE

The regular meeting this week of Glendale Lodge No. 331, Knights of Pythias, was enlivened by the presence of a delegation from the Van Nuys lodge on "Van Nuys Night." Other visitors were present, among whom was noted Sir Knight Schuck, of Triumph Lodge, of Urbana, Ill., who made a gingery address, which was appreciated by the membership.

Chancellor Commander Framm presided, though he had been somewhat ill for a few days.

The beautiful lesson of the Page rank was exemplified in full form by the officers, after which a delightful lunch was served in the banquet room. W. J. Hibbert acted as toastmaster.

All were pleased to learn that a large class of young men will be taken in during the next few weeks, demonstrating the well known fact that the K. of P. order is a young man's organization.

Reports from all over the United States show a large increase in membership in all lodges of the order.

The Esquire rank will be conferred at the next meeting. The annual Memorial services will be held at Forest Lawn cemetery on Sunday, June 5. Prominent speakers will address the members of all Pythian lodges and their friends.

READING CIRCLE HAS GOOD MEETING

About 50 members attended the meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle held Wednesday at the city library on Harvard street, and were called to order by Mrs. A. A. Barton.

The usual luncheon was enjoyed at noon, after which the program was given. It included a review of an article on the "Salvaging of Civilization," by Mrs. E. B. Wayman; a reading from the book, "The Prestons Growing Up," by Mrs. Crawford, and the reading by Mrs. H. V. Henry, of the chapter in the regular study book, "Biography of a Baby." As the last meeting of the circle for the current year will take place June 15, the circle decided to discuss plans for its annual outing at the next meeting.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR GLENDALE

The Glendale Ornamental Iron Works, a new concern conducted by the Messrs. R. C. Goudie, sr., and his son, R. C. Goudie, jr., will specialize in all kinds of artistic and ornamental wrought iron work.

Mr. Goudie has spent over 25 years in this line of work, and his son is also skilled in the same art. They will have a variety of samples of their product on display in some of the uptown windows in a few days.

FURNISH KITCHEN MONTE VISTA HOME

If you are interested in Glendale's adequately furnishing the kitchen at the Monte Vista Home for Undernourished Children of our county—and of course you are interested in it—and if it is possible for you to make sandwiches or salad for the lunch to be served the workmen who will give their services at the home next Sunday, will you kindly call Mrs. R. W. Meeker, Glendale 1108, and tell her so?

Glendale may well be proud of that kitchen. A band of carpenters worked there last Sunday, without money and without price, giving the only leisure hours they have all week to make the kitchen a sanitary, efficient workshop in which proper food, the greatest need of these children, will be prepared.

Painters will give their Sunday this week, and it is hoped that there will be enough ladies in Glendale who have the time and the interest in the work, to prepare sandwiches and salad.

LAW SECTION TO HAVE DEBATE

So intensely interesting was the debate before the parliamentary law section on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of the hostess of the day, Miss Eva Daniels, 324 West Colorado street, that it was decided to continue it at the next meeting on May 18.

The question debated was, "Resolved, that Glendale's greatest need is a swimming pool." The affirmative side was taken by Mrs. C. A. Redmond, Mrs. H. L. Baker and Miss Eva Daniels; the negative, by Mrs. W. H. Verity, Mrs. Homer Lockwood, Mrs. C. A. Brandstater. Other members present entered into the discussion.

Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, curator, presided at the meeting.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Daniels was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Minnie Phillips.

"THE SPENDERS" AT GLENDALE THEATER

"The Spenders," Benjamin B. Hampton's great all-star photoplay, which opened yesterday at the Glendale theater, is founded on the most popular of Harry Leon Wilson's famous novels. In it there is that wonderful humor for which all of Mr. Wilson's works are noted, combined with a beautiful love story, exciting dramatic incidents and the scintillant color of high society.

It has been remarked by critics that Mr. Wilson stands alone in making human beings of millionaire fiction characters. From lovable old "Uncle Peter Bines," who founded the huge Bines' fortune with a prospector's pick in the Rockies, to P. Percival Bines, grandson, whose chief occupation is spending, the characters of the novel are real-life ones. In Mr. Hampton's photoplay, portrayed by the greatest actors and actresses of the screen, they come to life in reality and are each strong and distinct.

Ruth Roland's forthcoming serial for Pathe will have several Indian features, a Hopi village among them.

BENEDICT REVIEWS HIS NINE WIVES

Man, 78, Living Now With Ninth Wife, Advises Men Against "Flappers"

By KENT WATSON.
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., May 6.—Weathering many tempests on the sea of matrimony, William L. Tillman, 78-year-old farmer, has ended his cruises and now is living peacefully with his ninth wife. The divorce courts of Missouri and North Carolina have thrice favored the aged tiller with their verdicts. Five of his former wives are dead.

"The best way to win a wife," Tillman declares, "is to pay all your attentions to the job of wooing, be with her as much as possible so your rival won't have a chance."

There isn't a woman on earth he couldn't win if he wanted her.

That's his unequivocal assertion regarding affaires de heart.

"Nothing is impossible in the world of affection. All women are different," the gray-haired king of marriages states. "Many women merely want love, not marriage. Most of them love 'cave-man' stuff. Many of them want to marry and raise children. By studying the psychology of the woman you want to win, you'll find the love-making methods to which they are most susceptible. They'll all fall if you know how to go after 'em."

Killed a Man

So ardent was Tillman's love for one of his former wives that he killed a man who tampered with his affections. Admitting the killing, for which he is said to have served a short term in prison, Tillman didn't care to "talk about that."

"I paid the penalty, so it makes no difference to anyone now," he declared. "I gave the 'other man' fair warning."

And take it from the love lariat's own assertion that he'll marry again if his present wife ever dies.

"What's the use of staying single?" he queries. Sure I'd marry again. There's no joke about that.

"I'd have to have somebody to cut wood for," he chortled.

With his wife, formerly Mrs. Sarah Tune, who now is 76 years old, Tillman resides on a farm in Butler county, several miles from here. He was born October 11, 1842, in North Carolina, served through the Civil War with the Union forces and was mustered out from company G, 110th Illinois infantry, at the close of the struggle between the states.

Divorced Three Times

Here is the list of wives with whom he has shared the trials and tribulations, the defeats and the victories of his varied career in the marriage market:

At the age of 23 he married Miss Rachel C. Lowry in August, 1865. She died in January, 1875. Eight months later he married Mary M. Canady. After four years of happiness she passed out.

In January, 1881, Tillman embarked again on the sea of matrimony, this time with Adeline Cavender. She died in 1895.

His first divorce was obtained from his fourth wife, nee Margaret Parker, whom he married in 1896.

Because his fifth wife, originally Mamie Shannor, "couldn't get along with the old rooster," he was divorced again in 1903.

Then for seven years he found bliss in the companionship of Mrs. Sophia T. Higgins, a widow, who died in 1910.

The seventh mate "made life very miserable," and Tillman secured a divorce from her in 1912, after having been married to her in 1911. She was a widow, Mrs. Harriet Ray, and the mother of several children by her first husband.

Again in 1915, he plunged, this time taking as his mate Mrs. Alice Witt, who died a year later.

Has Never Had Children

Tillman denied the story told by other old settlers that he had been the husband of two additional wives not given in the list.

"I wouldn't be ashamed of it if it were true," he asserted. I think my record does pretty well and I don't want to exaggerate it."

The age of a woman as compared with that of the man to whom she is married has nothing to do with the success of the wedded life, declares the sage of nearly a dozen wedding feasts.

"It all depends on the man," he declares. "Young fellows should never marry a flapper if they expect to know wedded bliss. Some wives have to be treated like babies; all of them should be petted. If they are not petted—well, they'll find a way out."

Tillman happens not to be the father of any children.

WOMAN ATTORNEY SEEKS JUDGESHIP

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 6.—Miss Clarice Margoles-Baright, brilliant young New York woman attorney, with offices in the heart of the financial district, has announced her candidacy for judge of the children's court.

Miss Baright first put in her application for appointment to the bench of the children's court seven years ago, but the position has always been filled by a man. Since then another New York woman has been appointed to the police bench and Miss Baright feels that the time is opportune now to re-enter her application for the work closest to her heart, and for which she feels she is best fitted—the role of guiding the little ones along the long, long road that lies ahead of each.

With her knowledge of the law and her acknowledged levelness of head, friends of Miss Baright believe she could do much for New York's swarming throngs of adolescents—for besides her head her heart is trained in the work she has chosen.
